

Interactive Brokers Chooses Wall Street Horizon for Earnings Calendar Data

Integration into Trader Workstation Adds Access to Fast, Accurate Calendar Information

BOSTON – May 25, 2010 – Wall Street Horizon, The Earnings Calendar Company<sup>SM</sup>, provider of highly accurate earnings and events calendar information to institutional investment professionals and traders, today announced that Interactive Brokers, one of the premier securities firms for institutional and individual customers, is the latest firm to incorporate WSH’s highly acclaimed information into their Trader Workstation application as a subscription-based service.

“We selected Wall Street Horizon because of their attention to detail,” said Steve Sanders, Managing Director of Interactive Brokers LLC. “Our trading clients are demanding, our electronic trading platforms are sophisticated, and Wall Street Horizon operates the way we need vendors to operate - at the highest levels of speed and accuracy in the industry.”

Interactive Brokers joins more than 50 major institutional firms who have selected Wall Street Horizon for its accuracy and responsiveness.

“We are very pleased to be working with Interactive Brokers,” said Barry L. Star, Managing Director of Wall Street Horizon. “Our philosophies are very similar in that we both believe speed, accuracy, and superior technology are critical components for traders. We’ve been making great strides in attracting industry-leading firms like Interactive Brokers by offering solutions that maximize trader profitability and minimize trade error due to inaccurate data.”

“We are pleased to be able to offer our clients a competitive advantage that pays for itself every day,” Mr. Star added.
